DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1, 2, 22, 23, and 29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Ternovsky (US 7,263,109 B2; cited and applied for the first time).

Refer to column 2, line 62 – column 3, line 24; column 4, line 53 – column 6, line 45; column 11, lines 9 – 17; column 15, lines 1 – 32; and claims 24 and 25 of Ternovsky. Ternovsky plainly teaches compensating for time differences between timing signals using a circular buffer with a variable read out location (reads on the jitter buffer of Ternovsky). The claimed JBM and the BMM of claim 22 reads on the jitter buffer of Ternovsky since Ternovsky teaches buffer management via the jitter buffer; and the claimed CCM reads on the clock skew compensation logic.

3. Claims 13 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Beach (US 6,901,270 B1; cited and applied for the first time).

Refer to FIGS. 1 and 6; and column 8, lines 8 – 17. The claimed wireless transceiver reads on the RF analog 24 in FIG. 1. The claimed antenna is plainly depicted. The claimed JBM reads on the Jitter Buffer 24 in FIG. 6. The claimed CCM is inherent since Beach clearly teaches the function of compensating for the irregularities in time.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

6. Claims 15 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Beach as applied above.

Beach differs from claims 15 and 16 with respect to the diversity feature. However, diversity is ubiquitous in the field of transceivers. Therefore, it would have been obvious even to one of ordinary skill in the art at time of the invention to incorporate a diversity feature into the system of Beach since the motivation to do so are well known in the transceiver art. Beach already teaches the function of the BMM.

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claims 3-12, 17-21, 24-28, and 30 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The patents to Ohlsson et al., Smith et al., and Duvvuru all teach aspects of jitter buffer and clock compensation.
